The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because it has not been presented in the proper domestic form. Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Claims 1-8, 12, 13 and 15-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

A conclusion of lack of enablement means that, based on the evidence regarding each of the factors below, the specification, at the time the application was filed, would not have taught one skilled in the art how to make and/or use the full scope of the claimed invention.

(A) The breadth of the claims.

The terms “hydrocarbonyl”, “aryl” and “heteroaryl” (all occurrences) are not limited to any number of carbon atoms and therefore encompass moieties of unlimited size which will probably interfere with the function of the claimed compounds.

The terminology “chemical substituent” (claim 6) encompass all known chemical substituents.

(B) The level of predictability in the art.

It is well known in the pharmaceutical art that even a minor variation of the structural formula of a compound can lead to unpredictable results in the function of said compound.

(C) The amount of direction provided by the inventor.

The specification fails to provide specific definitions of said terms.

(D) The existence of working examples.

The working examples are limited to substituents having low number of carbon atoms.

(E) The quantity of experimentation needed to make or use the invention based on the content of the disclosure.

Because there is no way to predict a priori which specific substituents encompassed by the present claims will result in compounds having the desired activity, it would take an enormous amount of trial and error to test how various moieties encompassed by the present claims will affect the activity of the claimed compounds.

Applicant's arguments filed November 23, 2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

The amendments to the claims have been noted. However, note that the definition of the variable R3 still encompasses the terms "aryl" and "heteroaryl" and the definition of the variable "R6" still encompasses the term "hydrocarbyl" in claim 1. Claims 2, and 3 still contain the terminology "hydrocarbyl derivative". Claim 5 still contains the terms "aryl" and "heteroaryl" as represented by the variable R8.

Claim 6 still encompasses the terminology "chemical substituent".

Further note that applicant has failed to provide a corrected Abstract.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
